TEACHERS IN BIG CONVENTION HEAR NOTED SPEAKERS

College athletes were present who themselves would call a "stiff noodle" by President G. Stanley Hall of Clark University in one of the National Education Association lectures to-day.

Sharp sentences by the Worcester editor were.

PRESIDENT HALL OF CLARK HITS ATHLETICS.

"The trainer kills more by teaching to win at any price." "Athletic education engenders the love of the body."

We lose the best thing the Greeks, who had no coaches, gained, viz., freedom, self-knowledge, self-control."

Another address today of great general interest was that by David Gooden of Boston, Commissioner of Education for Massachusetts. He scored the present era of published school reports, calling it deficient.

Today was the first one of the convention lectures and addresses given. The thousands of delegates, having spent Sunday in sightseeing and having listened to President Hall yesterday, arrived today in the busy work of the big convention.

A resume of the twenty lectures and addresses in the different departments shows that the 1910 convention is dealing with "stiff stuff," as the popular phrase goes. There is much in the address about the influence of athletics on the body, as well as the physique, and about the influence of athletics on the mind.

At the close of the convention, when the Department of Physical Education, located in Hamilton Hall in Boston, will be the center of the convention, the speakers will be in the hands of the Department of Physical Education, located in Hamilton Hall in Boston, will be the center of the convention.

OVER 400,000 AMERICANS SOLD ON 4TH

The Boston American had the most phenomenal circulation during the Fourth of July in the newspaper history of New England.

Five since newspapers have been printed in this part of the country the belief has been maintained that there was no demand on the part of the people for an evening newspaper on Independence Day.

Yet on July 4, 1910, the American sold more than 400,000 copies. It had been sold 300,000 copies if the paper had been able to turn out just enough all the papers for the day.

How to Stop Baldness
Dr. J. C. Bayles of New York, an eminent authority, says: "The only thing the layman can do to avert baldness is to keep the head clean and cool." Modern thought is all in the direction of cleanliness. The day of fake tonics, hair renewers, hair growers and invigorators is past. There is one preparation that prints the full formula of which it is made on the label of every jar. It is called Birt's Head Wash, and it cleans the scalp as nothing else can do. The formula is as follows: Refined Soap, Salicylic

Acid, White or Eggs, Coconut Oil and Glycerin. Ask your doctor what he thinks of it. Tubes 25c, jars 50c.
